

Where It All Began

Tina Adams Stoffel was born and raised in Indiana where she was found painting in her baby crib. Often finding herself bored as an only child led her to an interest in nature and art. Once her mother noticed she had potential, she saved enough money to buy her a Jon Gnagy art kit. As Tina's talent grew she pursued art classes school where she quickly sharpened her skills landing her a course scholarship at Herron School of Art through IUPUI in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Tina Adams Stoffel's Approach

As reflected in her work, nature, animals, art, and music have always fascinated Tina who specializes in uplifting seascape and wildlife oil paintings. Her paintings are created with divine guidance and infused healing energy. Viewers may immerse themselves into her paintings enjoying their calming, inspiring and balancing effects.

As described in her self-published motivational memoir, "My Wild Life", Tina was on course to major in Art when life took a different turn for a while. Therefore, Tina is primarily a self-taught painter who has learned through books and professional organizations about proper techniques and materials. She takes great pride in the quality of her work, using professional artist quality materials and techniques that yield high quality workmanship.
